

'This photo of Buddhist monks draping washed cloth out to dry upon a tree in the jungle symbolizes man's simple coexistence with nature, yet also underscores the Buddhist reverence for life and the importance nature plays in ascetic training.'

Chamaiporn Pongpanich, 13, Thailand

Winner of the Gold Award in the Children's category of UNEP International Photographic Competition on the Environment, 'Focus on Your World, 2004-2005'.